SLOGAN: MAGNOLIA STATE
ABBREVIATION: MS

State Dialling Code (Tel/Fax): +1 601

Mississippi Development Authority/Tourism Development Division:
Woolfolk Building, 501 North West Street, Jackson, MS 39201 Tel: 359 3297 Fax: 359 5757 E-mail: tinquiry@mississippi.org Website: www.visitmississippi.org

Capital: Jackson Time: GMT - 6

Background: Mississippi entered the Union on December 10, 1817, as the 20th state. Its economy was mainly agricultural until the middle third of the 20th century, when manufacturing became the dominant economic sector; service industries have become increasingly important in recent decades. Jefferson Davis, the president of the Confederacy during the American Civil War, resided there. The name of the state is taken from that of the Mississippi River, the name of which is derived from an Algonquian term for "big river". Mississippi is known as the "Magnolia State". Its main cities are Jackson (the capital), Biloxi, Greenville, Hattiesburg, Meridian, and Gulfport.

Population: According to the 1990 census, Mississippi had 2,573,216 inhabitants, an increase of 2.1 per cent over 1980. The estimated population for 1997 was 2,730,501. The average population density was 21 people per sq km (53 per sq mi) in 1990. Whites made up 63.5 per cent of the population; blacks represented 35.6 per cent, a higher proportion than in any other state. Other groups included 8,435 Native Americans, 3,815 people of Vietnamese ancestry, 2,518 people of Chinese origin, and 1,872 Asian Indians. Some 15,900 Mississippians claimed Latino ancestry.

Location: Mississippi (state), one of the southern states of the United States, bordered on the north by Tennessee; on the east by Alabama; on the south by the Gulf of Mexico and Louisiana; and on the west by Louisiana and Arkansas. The Mississippi River forms almost all of the western boundary, and the Pearl River forms part of the southern boundary.

Area: Mississippi has an area of 125,060 sq km (48,286 sq mi); 5.5 per cent of its land area is owned by the federal government. The state is roughly rectangular in shape, and its extreme dimensions are about 530 km (330 mi) from north to south and about 290 km (180 mi) from east to west. Elevations range from sea level, along the Gulf of Mexico, to 246 m (806 ft), at the top of Woodall Mountain in the north-east. The approximate mean elevation is 91 m (300 ft). The state's coastline is 71 km (44 mi) long.

Industries: Mississippi has considerable deposits of oil and natural gas. Other mineral resources include clay, cement, sand and gravel, lignite, iron ore, limestone, and salt.

Farming represents about 3 per cent of the annual gross state product, with crops providing about 33 per cent of the state's annual farm income. Mississippi typically ranks third among the 50 states in producing cotton, the state's most valuable crop being soya beans. Other major crops include rice, hay, wheat, corn, sweet potatoes, and pecans, and livestock and livestock products.

Mississippi typically ranks among the ten leading US states in forestry production; products include pine and hardwood timber as well as pulpwood for use in paper mills. The annual commercial fish catch is valued at about $44 million, with menhaden and shrimp dominating the yearly marine harvest.

Manufacturing accounts for about 28 per cent of the annual gross state product. Among the leading manufactured products are transport equipment (especially ships), clothing and textiles, timber, furniture and other wood products, electronic goods, and processed foods. Aerospace equipment and motor-vehicle parts are also manufactured. Meat-packing, poultry-processing, the manufacture of cheese, and the canning and freezing of fish are important food industries.
